Past event overviews:

“Catch a Rising Star”: Baldwin Wallace University senior student, Courtney Hausman, accompanied by Beth Burrier, BWU Associate Professor and Music Director on February 26, 2019. Courtney delighted the audience with portions of her senior recital. In April several W-WAC board members surprised Courtney at BWU by attending the senior class stage presentation with Courtney and her fellow graduating students. We all agreed Courtney was a standout at the recital.

Art Lecture Series: Sean Crum, Art Historian presented us a most informative and lively discussion and slide show of “American Art: From Benjamin West to The Wild West” took place on March 26, 2019. As always Sean enlightened everyone on the nuances of this interesting art subject.

FYI Opera Series: Jonathon Field, Director of Oberlin Conservatory of Music’s Opera Theater and students, delighted the crowd with superb singing & acting skills on April 23, 2019.

3rd Annual Jazz Brunch at Westwood Country Club. This well attended event featured Ann Gilbert, Dan Maier, and Bill Marx performing jazz music while the guest mingled, ate a delicious buffet brunch, bid on Chinese and Silent auctions plus the 50/50 Raffle. An additional bake sale was added to this year’s event which went over very well. Over $1,300.00 was raised towards our ongoing high school scholarship fund. Much thanks to R Pearl & J Surace Co-chairs, W-WAC board members, the talented Musicians, the staff at Westwood Country Club, and all who attended making this a great success.

Art Lecture Series: May 14th Andrea Chevalier, Senior Painting Conservator of Intermuseum Conservation Association, 2915 Detroit Rd., Cleveland, gave us a most interesting discussion & slide show of the professional artwork, architectural, & historical conservation being done on Cleveland’s west side! ICA is the oldest not-for-profit regional art conservation center in the USA.
